

Call for Proposals: Research and Best Practices in Relationship Education: A Symposium for Student Researchers and New Professionals

Please submit your abstract to present at a symposium focusing on research and best practices in relationship education for students and new professionals. The symposium will be part of the NARME Summit June 24-26, 2024 (narme.org).

Potential Paper Topics:

- Current research in relationship education (undergraduate student, graduate student, and early professional research papers are welcome).
- Proposed research initiatives with the purpose of receiving feedback from experienced researchers in the field.
- Current professional activities in the field of Relationship Education with a focus on best practices, lessons learned, coalition building, etc.
- Incorporating training in RE Curriculum as part of a university course.
- Other topics relevant to this symposium.

Please submit your 250-300 word abstract to Paul Schvaneveldt, Ph.D., Symposium Organizer: pschvaneveldt@weber.edu by February 29, 2024.